Nimbus parental leave and return planning

Version: 2026.2. Effective date: 2026-09-01. Owner: People Operations.

Access scope: workshop-public. Supersedes previous-policy.md.

Applicability

Synthetic Nimbus company benefit for eligible employees; statutory entitlements require individual People Operations review.

Company benefit

Employees with six completed months of service at the leave start date may take 12 weeks of company-paid parental leave for a birth, adoption, or foster placement. The benefit is available to each eligible Nimbus parent. Pay is based on contractual base salary; bonuses are outside this document.

Taking leave

Leave must begin within 12 months of the qualifying event. It may be taken in two blocks, each at least two weeks long. Submit the proposed schedule eight weeks ahead when foreseeable. An unexpected placement may be reported as soon as practical; lack of eight weeks' notice does not itself remove eligibility.

Return arrangement

For the first four weeks after return, an employee may request 80% scheduled hours at full base salary. The manager and People Operations record the schedule before return. This arrangement is separate from the annual vacation table in source-01.

Local entitlement interaction

People Operations must reconcile local entitlements and company benefit in writing. Do not add periods together or infer a legal maximum from this document. Medical information belongs in the restricted personnel case, not the team handover.
